Backstory:

Jeshek had been in hiding ever since the Empire invaded his planet and started taking slaves .Through sheer wit and dumb luck, he managed to evade capture. One day, he came across a strange representative. This person, a twilek, offered Jeshek a way off his world in exchange for services to his master, Jabba.

While tired of running and having a hard time finding any food, Jeshek agreed and was quickly taken to the unbearably hot world of Tattooine. He quickly became a favorite for his computer skills and managed to learn a few languages while under Jabba's employ. Slicing a few bank accounts and reprogramming droids made him very popular and protected.

Food, water, and a very comfortable place to sleep was his pay as long as he performed well for his new, and probably much better than anyone in the empire, master.
